Lisbon, June 16.—[Special]—George Parry was recalled when court opened in the afternoon, and upon being shown a revolver, identified it as that which was taken from Robison. He also answered clearly a number of questions as to the position of the rooms, and the conversation which followed the arrival of Chief Johnson.

"I am a little hard of hearing," said the witness, "but I heard what they had to say."

Dr. W. T. Norris was the next one wanted, but he could not be found, and Ed Blackburn was recalled.

"Robison asked permission to leave his valise in the barber shop. Yes, that valise looks like the one he left there," he continued, when an old black satchel was shown.

Doctor Norris meantime had been found, and said he was called to the hotel to attend Mrs. Robison. "She was in a comatose condition. I was not there when she died, as there were two other doctors there. I was at the autopsy, and found a bullet wound on right side of head. It was about here," putting his finger at the side of his head. "The cut was to the skull and an inch and a half deep. Some sharp instrument had done it. A portion of the eyeball was coming out, and pieces of the bone were driven in. It was like driving a nail through a board; the splinters are on the side the ball came out. Death was caused by the pressure of a blood clot on the brain, the result of arteries being cut. A part of the brain was fatal crushed. The pistol wound was fatal in course of time, but not immediately."

"Did death result from the shock from the pistol wound or from hemorrhage," asked Mr. Grosshans.

"I could not say. I have treated a young man who had a similar wound on his head recently. This wound was caused by something sharp."

"Where did you stand when the examination took place?"

"Not far away. I took the notes, and Doctor Ikirt and Doctor Ogden did the surgical work. They removed the scalp. The course of the ball was direct. I don't know that anyone decided the ball entered the side of the head and came out the eye. I have forgotten whether Doctor Ikirt suggested that theory."

"If there was a sharp corner on the stand and she should fall against it, would that produce the wound?"

"I can't say."

"I don't know whether the wound would be caused if she clutched the revolver when it was pointed at her by him."

"I don't think the wound could be caused by falling on a bottle," he said positively. "The boy who fell on the tie came in contact with a sawed die."

"I was the first physician to arrive after Mrs. Robison was shot," said Dr. Ogden. "Robison said when I went in that he did not want a doctor, as it was only a flesh wound. I found at the autopsy that the pistol shot entered the temple bone and came out the eye. We found pieces of bone in the brain, showing that the bullet had come out of the eye. It would not have been possible for the ball to enter the eye. The cut was an inch and a half in length. It was a clear cut to the bone, and was probably produced by a sharp instrument."

"What would you say to an instrument of that kind making the wound?" asked Mr. Speaker, showing him a putty knife.

"I think it would do it."

"I don't think the party who received the wound gave it. Robison did not appear to be intoxicated."

"He opened the door and let me in," he said in answer to Judge Young. "Robison was by the bed wiping away the blood. I saw the wounds, and Stewart asked me if she was badly hurt. Robison was standing nearby. I did not hear him talk. I was there perhaps 10 minutes before Doctor Ikirt came in. He said she was dying. Robison had probably been taken out by that time. I saw blood on the floor. We held the autopsy that night, and testified before the coroner Sunday. I examined the cut and found it was clear cut. I think it was done by some sharp object. I don't recall that there is a sharp projection on the stand. Had she fallen against this she would hardly have received that cut. I do not want to say. I don't know whether the top was sharp."

"I made the incision from ear to ear, and examined the brain. I found the blood clot. Doctor Ikirt assisted. The larger orifice was back of the ear. As a rule, the larger orifice is where the bullet came out."

The testimony given at the inquest was produced, and the statement read that he had said the bullet came out of the ear.

"You have only a newspaper account. It ought to be kicked out of court," said Mr. Potts.

Judge Young urged his point that the doctor had said the bullet went in the woman's eye and wanted to change it the next day. The doctor insisted that he simply answered the question.

"Isn't it true that you, after a conference with Doctor Ikirt, Jr., was satisfied of your error, and went to the newspaper office and had it changed?"

"No, sir."

"Was there a stenographer to take your evidence Sunday?"

"No, sir."

Judge Young and Mr. Speaker had a tilt over a question, and the Doctor was asked when the testimony was read to him. He said on Sunday.

Judge Smith allowed the Doctor to look over the statement he signed, with the privilege of changing it. He said that when Doctor came in he said she was shot in the eye, and that was taken for granted until the autopsy. He had been up all night, and did not notice it when it was read to him.

"I was at Mrs. Robison's bedside before her death, and saw a portion of the post mortem. I found a wound above the ear and one above the eye. At the first appearance one would think the ball entered the eye. I remarked it would require the removal of that portion of the skull to show the direction from which the ball came."

A piece of bone wrapped in a bloody handkerchief was shown the doctor, and a skull was produced. He showed where the bullet entered, and how it came through the eye. The examination of the doctor was severe. All sorts of questions were asked, each of which was met with a clear, intelligent answer.

"Death was caused by a clot and hemorrhage," said the doctor.

Judge Young was sharp in his cross examination. "I found the bullet lying by the trunk in the room while the autopsy was in progress. It had struck the window casing about the height of my shoulder from the floor. Tuesday or Wednesday I talked with the other doctors about the wound. The bullet did not enter straight, but at an angle. It had a slight inclination. It did not strike the skull at a right angle."

The piece of Mrs. Robison's skull formed the basis of an argument which lasted almost an hour. Judge Young picked up the revolver and showing it to the doctor wanted him to show how the shot was fired. The doctor refused.

"Suppose she grabbed the revolver; might not the wound have been made in that way," asked the judge, he and Attorney Grosshans giving a living picture in example. The doctor could not see it that way. The whole matter was a surprise to the defense, the skull having been carefully concealed for weeks.

"Where have you been Mr. Bryan?" asked Judge Young of the fireman. You are expected to stay here."

The witness had nothing new to offer, after identifying the penknife and putty knife and was cross examined.

Fireman McMillen told the same story identifying the putty knife, and describing the action of Robison when he pulled the knife from his pocket, declaring that McMillen could not take a joke.

The story was changed but little in cross examination.

Annie Pollet said that she was married and lived in Allegheny for 20 years. She knew Zach Robison for seven or eight years, and often went to their house.

"The last time I was there was the first week in April. She washed and ironed and he was doing nothing. I was there six years ago when they lived on Duquesne heights. They had some trouble. He had been drinking, and she begged him to stop drinking. I went upstairs and she called me down, and told me he was going to shoot her. He had a revolver and said, 'I'll fix her. I'll shoot her.' He wanted drink, and he went after it, and I got the revolver. I have often heard him threaten to smash her."

"Wasn't she big enough to spank him?" asked Judge Young.

"She was."

Judge Young asked a lot of questions, developing that the witness had known Robison for years. She often went to their house, and at the solicitation of Mrs. Robison went to stay with them, often remaining a week at a time, because his wife believed he was not dangerous when other people were around.

"I went once and found him on a spree, having been drunk two weeks. He called here several times, and she refused to get him drink. He cursed her. I went up stairs, and in five minutes she called me down. He had a revolver, but wouldn't shoot in front of anyone. I could never forget the language. Mrs. Robison carried the pocket-book, but I never saw him give her a cent. She bought his whisky and tobacco. She only drank when he forced her to take it. I was there in April, and saw Zach. Tom and Mrs. Robison were also there. Robison was drinking and growling most of the time. I was there in March, but I did not see Stewart. Robison had been drinking. I was there in January when Stewart was there. Mrs. Robison introduced me to Stewart. Stewart and Robison drank together. Mrs. Robison was also drinking, but was not drunk."

Fireman Peterson supported the testimony of the other officers.

Ella M. Jones, a sister of Mrs. Robison, was a neatly dressed young girl who lives in Beaver. She said:

"Mrs. Robison was 37 years old, and married Robison 15 years ago. He had been married before and had three boys. She is married. I am employed at Beaver college. I have only visited them four times, and she only came home once in ten years. They seemed to get along, only that she did the working. Nothing occurred to indicate that there was trouble. No symptoms of jealousy appeared."

"How old was your sister when she was first married," came from Judge Young. The witness was too young to know. She was divorced. She came home often while living with her first husband. She was not allowed to come home.

"I am married. My name is Ella Fish. I separated from my husband a year ago. After visiting her I went to Sheridanville. Stewart was there."

Mrs. Weigand was recalled by the prosecutor.

"Was you present at Robison's home when Dave was there, and Mr. and Mrs. Robison had some difficulty?"

"Yes, sir."

"When was it?"

"Five or six years ago. Dave told his father that day if he was in his place he would get a whip that was there and use it on Mrs. Robison."

"I ask that that be stricken out," said Judge Young.

"Did the husband say anything?" asked Judge Smith.

"No; he got the whip."

Judge Young laughed, and withdrew his objection.

On cross examination Young asked:

"Did Robison use the whip?"

"Not that I saw."

"What condition were you and Mrs. Robison in that day. Were you sober?"

"Yes sir."

"Were you and Mrs. Robison at the Cleveland races?"

"Nosir, I was not at the Cleveland races."

"Were you and Mrs. Robison at any race when Stewart was there?"

"No. I would not know the man if I should see him."

Court adjourned at this point until 9 o'clock this morning.

Court opened at 9:30 o'clock this morning with no crowd beyond a few witnesses. It was confidently expected that the state would complete its side before noon.

The first witness was Surveyor Farmer, who was recalled to explain all there was to be explained of the plot of the room where the tragedy occurred. The cross examination by Judge Young was vigorous.

Edward Blackburn, the barber, was recalled and shown the letter taken from Robison's valise and supposed to have been written by Mrs. Robison. They were examined by Judge Young, who objected. Mr. Speaker explained they were to show the relation between husband and wife.

"Where did you get these letters?" asked Judge Smith.

"In the satchel."

"Did anyone else have access to the valise?"

"Yes."

"The objection is that they are irrelevant," said Judge Young.

Judge Smith overruled the objection and Judge Young noted an exception.

The letters were published exclusively in the NEWS REVIEW after the murder.

The letter which Robison had when the crime was committed formed a bone of contention.

George Weigand was called to the stand, and when shown the letter identified it. He was positive it began "My Dear Darling," and was embarrassed when Judge Young showed him it began "My Darling."

This, however, did not bring out a great deal, and Robert Donaldson was called, and could not be found. Judge Young firmly stated that if the judge and jury could stay through a six hour session, witnesses certainly could stay about the court house. He did not know but what they ought to be punished.

At length Donaldson was found and readily identified the letter.

"Where did you come from?" asked Judge Young.

"From jail."

"What were you doing there?"

"I wasn't feeling well."

"Do people usually go to jail when not feeling well?"

This brought out that Donaldson was being held for a witness.

George Weigand when recalled identified the letter. Judge Young objected and the motion was overruled.

Prosecutor Speaker read the letter to the jury and again was Donaldson recalled to tell where the Hotel Grand is situated.

NOW THE DEFENSE.

A Battle Is Being Made For Robison's Life.

With Robert Donaldson, Prosecutor Speaker announced that the state would rest, and the defense took up its side. Judge Young presented in evidence the statement of Mrs. Robison, the mother of the accused. It was given in the NEWS REVIEW, yesterday, and states that Robison was afflicted from childhood, and the whole generation had suffered from nervous diseases.

W. R. McCord testified that he attended the inquest as clerk. He said that the witnesses were sworn and the statement of the witnesses were signed.

The prosecutor objected to the original statements being submitted, since it was taken by Mayor Gilbert, who was not the coroner. The document was not admitted, and Judge Young noted an exception.

Judge Young read the statement of Mrs. Weigand, and the witness testified that it was as she had given it.

The cross examination developed that McCord was not a shorthand writer, and no changes had been made in the testimony after witnesses at the inquest signed the statements.

Doc Howard, the old soldier, so well known in East Liverpool, testified that he knew Zach Robison when he was a boy at Beallsville, Pa. "He was a peculiar sort of a boy, and had a fierce look in his eye. After the war I went back to Beallsville. On April 24 I saw Robison at my shop, and he looked the same to me as when he was 12 or 14 years of age. His eyes had a sharp, staring look. He seemed delirious on that day."

On cross examination by Prosecutor Speaker, Howard repeated the assertion that he thought him vicious. The prosecutor recalled a conversation he had with Howard several weeks ago, when he stated that Robison said he wanted to know when he could get out of town on Sunday, and that he might go on the steamboat.

Judge Young then brought out the information of Michael Flick and Daniel Flick, relatives of Robison, who lived at Beallville.

Tom Robison, son of the accused, was the next witness. He is a pleasant faced lad, and talked as though he meant every word he said:

"My father, Alice and I lived together. I have lived with them 10 years. Before that I lived with my grandmother. Father was married to Alice Robison 14 years ago. I have been painting seven years. Having work from eight to nine months in a year. I have contributed to the support of the family as much as $20 a pay. My father was a painter, and got as high as $12.75. He worked for Mr. Bohaning off and on for a year. When he secured his money he took it home and gave it to his wife. It was his custom as long as I can remember. He used tobacco, but she bought that for him, as well as his clothes. My father's health was good until a year ago, when he gradually got melancholy. I noticed it in his walk. He stooped over, and never looked around. I have asked him question when his answer would be something entirely different. He would complain in the morning because he could not sleep at night. On these mornings his eyes would be bloodshot and swelled.

Having work from eight to nine months in a year. I have contributed to the support of the family as much as $20 a pay. My father was a painter, and got as high as $12.75. He worked for Mr. Bohaning off and on for a year. When he secured his money he took it home and gave it to his wife. It was his custom as long as I can remember. He used tobacco but she bought that for him, as well as his clothes. My father's health was good until a year ago, when he gradually got melancholy. I noticed it in his walk. He stooped over, and never looked around. I have asked him question when his answer would be something entirely different. He would complain in the morning because he could not sleep at night. On these mornings his eyes would be bloodshot and swelled,

LIKE NATURAL DEATHS

No One to Blame For the Urbana Killings.

VICTIMS GOT SHOT, THAT'S ALL.

Coroner Hewitt Clears the Soldiers Captain Leonard, Sheriff McLain and Mayor Ganson—Governor Bushnell Also Did Right—The News of the State.

URBANA, O., June 16.—Coroner Hewitt has rendered the following verdict on the death of Henry Bell, who was killed when the first attack was made on the county jail on the night before the lynching of Chick Mitchell: "I do find that the said deceased came to his death from a wound in the head produced by a rifle ball fired by a member of Company D, Third regiment, Ohio National Guard, acting under orders from the captain of said company and while attempting to defend the county jail of Champaign county, Ohio, and prevent a crowd of people there assembled and doing violence to a prisoner, Charles Mitchell, Jr., confined therein, charged and convicted of rape on the morning of June 4, 1897.

"I fail to find from the testimony of the witnesses examined by me any failure or neglect on the part of Governor Asa S. Bushnell to promptly respond to any request made to him or the sheriff, Lewis H. McLain, for troops to assist him in defending said jail or protecting said prisoner. And I don't find from the testimony so taken by me any failure on the part of Sheriff Lewis H. McLain to use all means at his hands for the protection of said jail or said prisoner.

"I further find that Mayor C. H. Ganson directed the police force of the city to do all in their power to preserve order and that he did not in any way attempt to usurp the power of the sheriff, or in any manner claim to represent him in discharging his duty, but that he, as the mayor of the city, advised the crowd there assembled not to attempt any violence to the prisoner, Charles Mitchell, Jr., and that his conduct on that occasion was wholly directed toward preventing any violence being done to the prisoner by the persons there assembled and any further killing of the people by the militia. (Signed) "W. C. Hewitt, "Coroner Champaign Co."

A similar verdict was rendered as to the death of Upton Baker.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

The Old Veterans in Session at Chillicothe—Resolutions Adopted.

CHILLICOTHE, O., June 16.—The encampment of the Ohio department of the G. A. R. is being held here. The election of officers will take place today and the contests are becoming spirited. The Seventeenth regiment, O. N. G., has reached here and gone into camp at Driving park. They had marched from Circleville, and one member of the regiment was sunstruck and is in a serious condition. Several others were thrown from their horses and badly injured. Senator Hanna, Governor Bushnell, Commander-in-Chief Clarkson and other distinguished guests are expected.

The G. A. R. encampment adopted the following resolutions amid enthusiasm:

"Resolved, That as members of the Grand Army of the Republic, who fought to maintain, unimpaired, free institutions and civil liberty and as descendants of those who threw off the sovereignty of Great Britain in 1776, we are unalterably committed to the principle that no foreign power can have the right to govern an American people without the consent of the governed; we therefore sympathize with and most heartily approve of the efforts of patriotic Cubans to secure for themselves and their children the right of self government, a right inherited in all American countries.

"Resolved, That we condemn the plan for making war on women and children and non-combatants contrary to the rules of civilized warfare.

"Resolved, That in order to voice the sentiment of the people of the United States our government ought to recognize the independence of the republic of Cuba and to permit Americans to aid the cause of liberty in Cuba as the French aided our ancestors in their revolution; that treaties, if any exist which retard the progress of liberty and civilization, ought to be set aside and at least that Cubans should have equal rights with the Spaniards in our ports and markets, and our war vessels should not act as patrol's, thereby aiding Spain against Cuba."

While alluding simply to the great issue of the money question, it was he said, so decidedly out of place, that he could not deal with it on this occasion.

SUGAR SCHEDULE FINISHED.

The Senate Leaves It and Takes Up the Agricultural Schedule.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The senate has completed the consideration of the sugar schedule of the tariff bill, except the provision relating to Hawaii, which went over. This schedule has been the storm center of the entire bill and with it disposed of, there is better prospect for speedy action on the bill as a whole. The first paragraph of the sugar schedule has served to bring out all the speeches and the test votes, and when this was passed, the other paragraphs of the schedule were agreed to without further opposition. As agreed to, the schedule places on sugar not above No. 16 Dutch standard, 1 cent per pound, and three-tenths of a cent for every degree above 75; and on sugars above No. 16 Dutch standard, 1.95 cents per pound. The other provisions of the schedule relate to maple sugar, maple syrup, candy, etc.

Only one ye and nay vote was taken, on the amendment of Mr. Lindsay (Ky.) to make the rate 1.8 cent per pound on sugar above No. 16 Dutch standard. The amendment was defeated, 32-35.

The Pettigrew amendment, relating to trusts, was then taken up and discussed at length. It developed considerable divergence of view on both sides of the chamber, the two Alabama senators, Messrs. Morgan and Pettus, joining Mr. Hoar (Mass.) in opposition. Mr. Allison finally tested the sense of the senate by moving to table the amendment, which motion prevailed; yeas 35, nays 32, two Democrats, Morgan and McEnery, voting with the Republicans to table and thus turning the scale against the amendment.

Consideration of the agricultural schedule was then resumed, the butter paragraph being agreed to as reported.

CAUSE OF CUBA LAGS.

The President Can Take No Definite Action Until He Secures a Minister.

This Problem Seems Almost Impossible of Solution at the Present Outlook.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—It can be stated unequivocally as the result of the cabinet meeting that no important action relating to Cuba will be taken by the administration until the new minister to Madrid has been chosen and is at his post ready for the duties of the mission. This fact is significant, in that it means that some weeks must certainly elapse before the president will take any action whatever vital to the relations of this government and the island of Cuba. The question was brought up and discussed briefly, but the situation, so far as Cuban action is concerned, is just the same as it has been for weeks.

The difficulty of finding a man satisfactory to the president to fill the post at Madrid delays action and Mr. McKinley is no nearer a selection for the post than he was at the beginning of the administration. The delay is somewhat vexatious to the administration, which is anxious to begin negotiations with Spain looking to the amelioration, in some form, of the condition of affairs in Cuba as speedily as possible. Several names were talked over, but the discussion was fruitless.

TURKEY ACCEPTS ANGELL.

Good News Received at the State Department From Constantinople.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—A cablegram received at the state department from United States 'charge at Constantinople states that the sultan has issued an irade announcing the acceptance of Dr. Angell as minister from the United States and Mr. Terrell has accordingly started for home.

The action of the porte was very welcome at the state department and the news was communicated to Dr. Angell at his home in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Adjourned to Meet in Rome.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Universal postal congress, the fifth convention of the kind in the world, has finished its labors, after a closed session lasting several hours. The final session was devoted to the formal signing of the general treaty and of the detailed articles.

THE IRISH CAN'T JUBILATE.

Redmond Says a Hot Resolution Will be Introduced in the Commons.

DUBLIN, June 16.—A largely attended meeting of the Irish Independent League has been held here. John Redmond, M. P., in the course of an impassioned speech, denounced Michael Davitt's "foolish and vindictive" policy of opposing Mr. Balfour's Irish local government scheme.

Dealing with the abstention from the jubilee festivities which the recent Irish manifesto had enjoined upon Irish members of parliament and Irish generally, Mr. Redmond announced that the Irish party had determined to move in the house of commons an amendment to the address of congratulation to her majesty.

The purport of the amendment, he said, would be that, while other parts of the empire were prosperous and contented, Ireland was suffering from misgovernment, depopulation and famine.

WELLSVILLE.

RUM POWER IN CONTROL

And Everything Is Subordinate to That Element.

THE STREETS ARE VERY DIRTY

A Citizen of Wellsville Speaks Out In Regard to the Way the City Is Controlled—A Stagnant Pool That Should Be Abated Causes Unfavorable Comment.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—This city should be one of the most beautiful places along the Ohio, surrounded as it is by beautiful scenery. Nature has done much for us, and were the city government composed of officials who have the interests of the people at heart, it would indeed be a pleasant place to live. But, as is too often the case, the rum power holds full control, and everything else is subordinated to that element. This city bears the impress of that damning influence everywhere. Take, for instance, some of the principal thoroughfares of the city. They are in a deplorable condition. Dirt and filth everywhere. True, the street force is occasionally ordered to "clean up," and make a bluff in that direction; but it is the exception when they are seen where they are most needed—on streets where overflowing cess pools are too numerous to count, and where grass and weeds are permitted to grow knee high and rot in the gutters, into which water from bath rooms, water closets, the kitchen and other sources is drained; and to the conglomerate mass of filth is added the refuse from stables, rotten vegetables and other unsightly and filthy matter. But our desire, Mr. Editor, is to particularly call the attention of your readers to the condition of one of these "stink holes," near Sixth, on Commerce, which is fed and maintained by a citizen, a property holder, and one who should at least have pride enough to keep his premises free from the conditions complained of. But not so. In open and flagrant violation of the health laws of the state, a living, slimy, green and stagnant pool of water that would cause a Digger Indian to blush with shame if he were even accused of maintaining such a stink pond within a mile of his wigwam. But this privileged gentleman is not only unmolested but is tenderly protected by the able and efficient officials of the city. The mayor, board of health, health officer and members of council are aware of its existence, and have examined and condemned the pond, recognizing the fact that it should be abated, but have not the nerve to enforce the laws, notwithstanding the fact that its existence is a menace to the health of a large number of people. In fact, so terrible is the stench arising from the nuisance that quite a number are talking of changing their places of abode and leaving the gentleman to abide in peaceful possession of his filth. And parties who have property to rent are threatening to sue the city for damages in case their property is vacated by their tenants, from the cause complained of. And may they be successful.

RARE SURGICAL OPERATION.

Fractured and Crushed Ribs and Bones Repaired.

Acting Superintendent Rader recently performed a surgical operation on Henry Henfrew, a 16-year-old negro, which is the fourth of its kind to be made in this country. The subject, who lived at 1236 Morgan street, jumped a train at East St. Louis to ride to this city, and in attempting to leap from a freight car in the union yards was thrown under the car. He was a powerfully built fellow, and the wheels, instead of running over him, crushed his chest and forced him outside of the rails. He was sent to the City hospital, where it was found that all the ribs as well as the breastbone were broken and the upper bone of the arm, the shoulder blade and the collar bone were crushed. The man was scarcely alive when he reached the institution, despite his powerful physique, and Dr. Rader determined to risk the only operation which could possibly save his life.

The man was laid on the table and the entire outside skin from the waist to the neck laid back. The muscles and tendons of the shoulder and the neck were then forced up, and the ribs, one by one, taken care of. Many of them were so crushed that it was necessary to supply sections from six to eight inches long, simply retaining enough slivers of the bone to form a circulation for the marrow tissues and fluids. The ribs were bridged and the lungs placed in their proper places, the thorax supplied with a silver tube and the little bones replaced with a net of silver wire. Then, after sewing up the incision, the subject was placed on his stomach, where four of the vertebrae were replaced with silver joints, the clavicle, or collar bone, removed and splints put in to take its place, while the humerus, the long bone of the upper arm, was taken out and its place filled with a composite bone of the same shape. — St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

RUM POWER IN CONTROL

THE STREETS ARE VERY DIRTY

A Citizen of Wellsville Speaks Out In Regard to the Way the City Is Controlled—A Stagnant Pool That Should Be Abated Causes Unfavorable Comment.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW:—This city should be one of the most beautiful places along the Ohio, surrounded as it is by beautiful scenery. Nature has done much for us, and were the city government composed of officials who have the interests of the people at heart, it would indeed be a pleasant place to live. But, as is too often the case, the rum power holds full control, and everything else is subordinated to that element. This city bears the impress of that damning influence everywhere. Take, for instance, some of the principal thoroughfares of the city. They are in a deplorable condition. Dirt and filth everywhere. True, the street force is occasionally ordered to "clean up," but it is the exception when they are seen where they are most needed—on streets where overflowing cess pools are too numerous to count, and where grass and weeds are permitted to grow knee high and rot in the gutters, into which water from bath rooms, water closets, the kitchen and other sources is drained; and to the conglomerate mass of filth is added the refuse from stables, rotten vegetables and other unsightly and filthy matter. But our desire, Mr. Editor, is to particularly call the attention of your readers to the condition of one of these "stink holes," near Sixth, on Commerce, which is fed and maintained by a citizen, a property holder, and one who should at least have pride enough to keep his premises free from the conditions complained of. But not so. In open and flagrant violation of the health laws of the state, a living, slimy, green and stagnant pool of water that would cause a Digger Indian to blush with shame if he were even accused of maintaining such a stink pond within a mile of his wigwam. But this privileged gentleman is not only unmolested but is tenderly protected by the able and efficient officials of the city. The mayor, board of health, health officer and members of council are aware of its existence, and have examined and condemned the pond, recognizing the fact that it should be abated, but have not the nerve to enforce the laws, notwithstanding the fact that its existence is a menace to the health of a large number of people. In fact, so terrible is the stench arising from the nuisance that quite a number are talking of changing their places of abode and leaving the gentleman to abide in peaceful possession of his filth. And parties who have property to rent are threatening to sue the city for damages in case their property is vacated by their tenants, from the cause complained of. And may they be successful.

The News of Wellsville.

Daniel Steiner recently sold a suit of clothes to a young man named Duff, of Irontale. Yesterday Duff resigned his position in a grocery store and left for his home in Belmont county. Steiner was notified, and yesterday he met the young man at the train in Wellsville and demanded the suit or his money. The young man gave him $10 and the coat and vest, and started out at once to procure money enough to redeem them.

Fred Carleson yesterday afternoon at the rolling mill was struck with a sliver of steel about an inch long, which punctured his wrist and made a gash in his arm two inches in length. The wound was dressed, but he will have a sore arm for several days.

Orville Black, of Salineville, and Miss Lizzie Maas, of this city, will be united in marriage Thursday morning at the Immaculate Conception church.

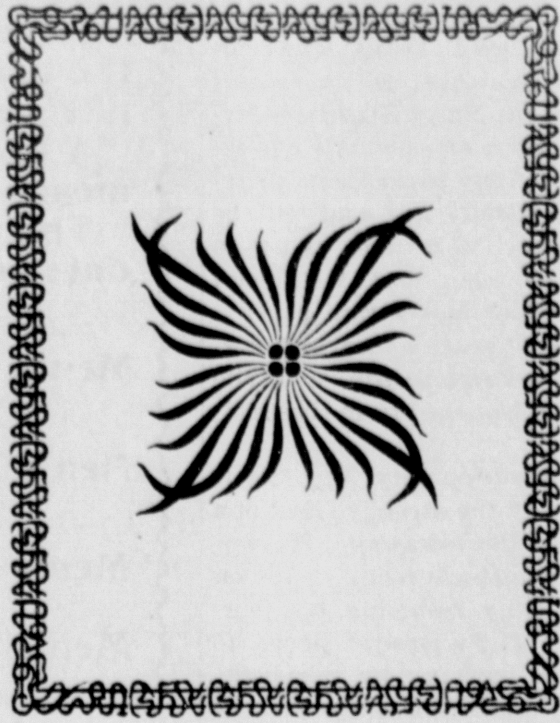

An Italian wedding was performed yesterday by Rev. Frances Daugherty, of Hudson, at the Immaculate Conception church, at the conclusion of the 40 hours devotion services.

The wreck train has been repainted. A drunken individual, pugilistically inclined, last evening caused a disturbance in West End.

John Linder has returned from north-east Pennsylvania, accompanied by a bride. A sister of Mrs. Linder was married at the same time, and a double wedding ceremony was performed.

A farmer considerably under the influence of liquor got lost, yesterday afternoon, in lower Main street, and finally asked some boys to show him the way.

The funeral of Mrs. Merve Cline, yesterday afternoon, was largely attended.

The festival at the Center street mission chapel last night was largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. James Parkinson last evening, at their home on Main street, entertained friends in honor of their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd, of New York.

A party of 15 or 20 people from Salineville yesterday attended the thirty-third anniversary of Mrs. Oscar Burch, in Broadway. They brought baskets well filled, and an enjoyable time was had.

There is a story current in this city which is causing much comment, and trouble of a serious nature may ensue. The principals in the case are comparative strangers here, and embrace a prominent churchman and an equally prominent young lady of a lakeside city. A resident physician may get into trouble by interesting himself in the case. All the principals should heed the warning that "be sure thy sin will find thee out."

While Her Father Tarried.

There was a romantic wedding in East Macon, Ga., recently. Tom Ansley and Miss Inez Subers were quietly married by Rev. Dr. White.

Ansley is a prominent young business man of Iron City, Ala., and he and Miss Subers have been in love for two years or more.

Judge Amos Subers, father of the bride, objected to the marriage on account of the age of the couple.

The young groom took advantage of his absence to bring about the marriage.

RARE SURGICAL OPERATION.

Fractured and Crushed Ribs and Bones Repaired.

Acting Superintendent Reder recently performed a surgical operation on Henry Henfrew, a 16-year-old negro, which is the fourth of its kind to be made in this country. The subject, who lived at 1236 Morgan street, jumped a train at East St. Louis to ride to this city, and in attempting to leap from a freight car in the union yards was thrown under the car. He was a powerfully built fellow, and the wheels, instead of running over him, crushed his chest and forced him outside of the rails. He was sent to the City hospital, where it was found that all the ribs as well as the breastbone were broken and the upper bone of the arm, the shoulder blade and the collar bone were crushed. The man was scarcely alive when he reached the institution, despite his powerful physique, and Dr. Reder determined to risk the only operation which could possibly save his life.

The man was laid on the table and the entire outside skin from the waist to the neck laid back. The muscles and tendons of the shoulder and the neck were then forced up, and the ribs, one by one, taken care of. Many of them were so crushed that it was necessary to supply sections from six to eight inches long, simply retaining enough slivers of the bone to form a circulation for the marrow tissues and fluids. The ribs were bridged and the lungs placed in their proper places, the thorax supplied with a silver tube and the little bones replaced with a net of silver wire. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16.

THE testimony of Annie Pollet, in the Robison murder case, bears very strongly against the accused.

POTTS, of the Patriot, scorches the lower region sheet for its so-called "official" report of the Robison murder inquest. Potts evidently takes but little stock in the truthfulness of ye reporter who uses his name voluminously in his sensational silly sallies, and less stock in the unreliable sheet he represents.

CALAMITY HOWLERS.

The calamity howler is a silver Democrat, or in sympathy with that party. Four years of mistakes and financial blunders, on the part of Grover Cleveland and his advisors, placed the business interests of the United States in an awful condition. Then came the Republican victory. Confidence has been restored. Slowly but surely is prosperity coming to the surface, and the passage of the tariff bill will accelerate, in no uncertain measure, the coming of good times. The howls of the "calamity crew" will be buried beneath the glorious waves of prosperity. Selah.

ENFORCE THE LAW.

THE NEWS REVIEW has always and ever advocated this idea, under its present management. A member of the present police force laughs at the newspapers of the city, and especially this paper, stating that the call to "ENFORCE THE LAW" is a chestnut; that he will do as he pleases and that newspaper men are all frauds and carry no weight. This same fellow is now conspicuous by his lack of arrests, in his catering to an evil and disorderly element, in the hope of obtaining their votes at a given time. He is but a light weight, mentally, and he will find that he is but the servant of the people, and that the good citizens of East Liverpool will hold him to a strict account. He will learn the lesson that "speech is silver, but silence is golden." His official days are even now numbered. We know whereof we speak. The law must and shall be enforced.

EMOTIONAL INSANITY.

The dodge of emotional insanity has been worn threadbare by criminal lawyers, in their desperate efforts to save their clients from receiving their just deserts. Emotional and temporary insanity dodges, in all such cases, should receive very careful attention at the hands of intelligent judges. If they are discovered to be mere dodges and subterfuges, by and through which cowardly criminals aim to save the breaking of their worthless necks, then should they be cast aside as unworthy of consideration and the law be allowed to take its course. If insanity be shown to be the true cause of the murder committed, and if testimony adduced shows conclusively that the murderer is liable, at any moment, to be overcome by "temporary or emotional insanity," and murder his father, mother, wife, sister, brother, or some other innocent person, then should he be incarcerated in an insane asylum and held there for all time, as he is, without doubt, a menace to the public at large. If the murderer is an "artful dodger," such a sentence, barred forever from all hope of escaping from an insane asylum, would be worse than hanging or life imprisonment, and the "emotional or temporary insanity" dodge would become very unpopular and seldom made use of. "Temporary insanity," superinduced by jealousy and reinforced by alcoholic stimulants, should be no excuse for murder, and the perpetrator of the dastardly deed, committed under such influences, should suffer the penalty of the law. The use of common sense should be brought into play, and silly sentimentalism be banished from our courtrooms.

TANYARD RUN SEWER

Sewer Commission and Council Last Night

TALKED OF THE PROJECT

It Seems Probable That Some Kind of a Sewer Will Be Built—A Committee Appointed to Interview the People Owning Property Abutting on the Run.

When the joint session of council and the sewer commissioners was called to order last evening, Councilmen Peach, Marshall, Challis, Stewart, Ashbaugh and Sewer Commissioners Cartwright, McNicol, Arbuckle and Croxall were present, together with Solicitor Grosshans and Engineer George.

Mr. McNicol explained that the meeting was merely an informal one, and the subject of sewerage Tanyard run was open for discussion. It was the general opinion that a large sewer should be built, if it was possible to assess the cost against sewer district No. 2. Mr. Peach thought the property owners along Tanyard run would be willing to pay more than their share if the sewer was built. Engineer George submitted plans of the sewer, and said his estimate was placed high enough to pay the cost of making inlets. The question of building a 24-inch sewer along the route was raised, and Engineer George said the run would still be a nuisance. He also stated the sewer in district No. 1 cost $1.30 per foot front and his estimate was made on this basis. Mr. Marshall said the proper thing to do if the sewer was built was to redistrict the city, and let Tanyard run drain the entire basin south of Sixth street. Mr. McNicol thought it would be the proper thing to call on the property owners along the run and see if they would be willing to stand half the cost of a trunk sewer. If not, the only thing to do was to figure on a smaller and cheaper sewer. Engineer George thought the only proper way to settle the question was to build a trunk sewer from Walnut street to the West End Pottery.

Solicitor Grosshans thought it would be the proper course to take the entire district, figure up the cost, charge it against the property, and when the sewer was extended, to charge the property owners at the same rate. He also said the hardest question to settle was just how the assessment could be made. Engineer explained that the work could not be finished this year, although the main sewer could be completed.

Mr. Marshall thought it would be wise to get permission from the state board of health before building a sewer to empty into the river, and Solicitor Grosshans promptly replied that it could not be done, and Mr. Marshall said Wellsville could get out an injunction and stop proceedings. After a great deal of discussion a motion was made by Mr. Stewart that Clerk Hanley, T. H. Arbuckle and Engineer George be appointed to get propositions from the owners of property abutting on Tanyard run to see what they would be willing to pay toward constructing a sewer from Avondale street to the West End pottery and report at the next meeting of council. It carried, and the meeting adjourned.

HE'S A BEAUTY.

He's an Official, and Aspires to Promotion.

He is well known in the city of East Liverpool and claims that he can be promoted at any time he desires. He stood on Fifth street the other night and watched some young sports driving a horse at reckless, break-neck speed, endangering life and limbs of pedestrians, and then this so-called protector of the people walked along smilingly, without a thought of making information against the reckless lawbreakers. This so-called protector affects to despise law abiding citizens, and imagines that he can be elected by the hoodlum element. Let him have a care. His misconduct and failure to do his sworn duty have been noted by men who have sworn to defeat him in his aspirations, and in his own elegant phraseology, his name will be "mud." Selah.

FAINTED AWAY.

Editor Thos. W. Morris Overcome by Excessive Heat.

Thos. W. Morris, editor of the NEWS REVIEW, is on duty at Lisbon, looking after the interests of this paper in connection with the Robison murder case. He is ably assisted by our Lisbon correspondent, Miss Jess B. Daily. The combination is a good one, as our readers will testify, as the NEWS REVIEW is giving the most complete, accurate and reliable account of any paper there represented. Full details are and will be given, but in such a manner as not to give offense to the most fastidious; in a manner which makes this paper a welcome guest at your homes and fire sides. Dirty sensationalism and vile suggestions are banished from these columns.

Yesterday, while on duty, Mr. Morris was overcome by the excessive heat of a close room, and fainted away. He was removed to an adjacent room and soon recovered, pluckily resuming his journalistic duties after a lapse of about 15 minutes. This morning, by telephone, Mr. Morris informed this office that he is all right and ready to make it interesting for would-be competitors.

Some sensationally-inclined newspaper correspondent, residing at Lisbon, sent out, to the city papers, the statement that Mr. Morris was in a dying condition, and this false and sensational report caused much trouble at Carrollton, the home of Mr. Morris, and a telegram was received near midnight, asking about the matter. A reply was at once wired as follows:

"Some blunder made. Our Thos. W. Morris is all right."

Sensational journalism is an infernal nuisance, and the would-be newspaper men who indulge in such reprehensible work should forever be barred from the ranks of true journalists, as no true journalist will degrade his position by such miserable measures. East Liverpool is unfortunate in having a sheet which caters to just such nastiness, and its aim seems to be to get as far from the truth as possible. It will have its reward in due time. "The mills of the gods."

MARRIAGE BELLS.

Rev. J. M. Huston Yesterday Married Two Couples.

Logan Zane and Miss Ella Nora Geisz, both of this city, were married yesterday by Rev. J. M. Huston. The young couple are well and favorably known in the city.

THE BALL GAME

Yesterday Was Won By the East Liverpool Team.

The ball game at Rock Spring yesterday afternoon was an interesting contest until the fourth inning, when the East Liverpool team took a good lead. Long was put in to pitch the last inning for the picked nine and the game was turned into a farce. The score:

East Liverpool.....1 2 2 0 5 0—10 7 5
Picked nine.....0 1 0 0 0 0—1 2 9

Summary: Home runs, Frey; bases on balls, by McCurran 2, Long 1, Albright 5; Struck out by McCurran, 4, Long 1, Albright 5; passed balls, Davis 2, Chambers 1.

He was removed to an adjacent room and soon recovered, pluckily resuming his journalistic duties after a lapse of about 15 minutes. This morning, by telephone, Mr. Morris informed this office that he is all right and ready to make it interesting for would-be competitors.

Some sensationally-inclined newspaper correspondent, residing at Lisbon, sent out, to the city papers, the statement that Mr. Morris was in a dying condition, and this false and sensational report caused much trouble at Carrollton, the home of Mr. Morris, and a telegram was received near midnight, asking about the matter. A reply was at once wired as follows:

"Some blunder made. Our Thos. W. Morris is all right."

Sensational journalism is an infernal nuisance, and the would-be newspaper men who indulge in such reprehensible work should forever be barred from the ranks of true journalists, as no true journalist will degrade his position by such miserable measures. East Liverpool is unfortunate in having a sheet which caters to just such nastiness, and its aim seems to be to get as far from the truth as possible. It will have its reward in due time. "The mills of the gods."

MARRIAGE BELLS.

Rev. J. M. Huston Yesterday Married Two Couples.

Justice John W. Riley, of Wellsville, and Miss Jennie M. Hamilton were married yesterday by Rev. J. M. Huston. The groom is one of Wellsville's popular young business men, while the bride is a most estimable young lady of this city. They have many friends who will wish them success on life's journey.

Logan Zane and Miss Ella Nora Geisz, both of this city, were married yesterday by Rev. J. M. Huston. The young couple are well and favorably known in the city.

THE BALL GAME

Yesterday Was Won By the East Liverpool Team.

The ball game at Rock Spring yesterday afternoon was an interesting contest until the fourth inning, when the East Liverpool team took a good lead. Long was put in to pitch the last inning for the picked nine and the game was turned into a farce. The score:

Picked nine.....	0	1	0

Summary: Home runs, Frey; bases on balls, by McCurran 2, Long 1, Albright 5; Struck out by McCurran, 4, Long 1, Albright 5; passed balls, Davis 2, Chambers 1.

STILL DRAGS ALONG.

Last March he was very sick. I don't know what was the matter, but he had been drinking, and was getting over a spree. He went into the garden and came back and said to my stepmother that we could not make garden this year, because it was full of tacks. When he read the paper he would pick out a piece and read it over and over. I remember once he was reading and my stepmother, who had been out, came in suddenly, and he jumped up and fell on the floor. She asked him what was the matter, and he said, 'My, how you scared me, Alice,' and Alice said my father was losing his mind."

"I know Chuck Stewart. Met him a year ago, at my father's house. He was drunk. I saw him the next Sunday morning after that, and then saw him every day from that on. I never was on more than speaking terms with him. He made arrangements that day to stay; that is, my stepmother told father he had no place to go, his father having turned him out. She wanted to make a man of him. Father, she said, had boys out in the world, and he would be glad to have them taken care of. Father did not say he could stay. Stewart was a married man, 23 years old, and he never worked enough to know what it meant. He worked two weeks for a man, sifting sand, and dug two holes for telephone poles. He remained at our house to the time of the tragedy, but not by father's consent. He would come in drunk and father would say it was no use to keep him. Alice would say she would give him a good talking to, and would straighten him out. Father and I went to work early in the morning, and generally left Stewart in bed."

"Father would get on a drunk every three or four months, and every time he got drunk, Stewart and Alice would get drunk too. She carried all the money, and paid for the liquor. She would bring in from a quart to a gallon. Father could not stand as much as the others and would get dead drunk and go to bed. Alice and Stewart would pour out a glass of whisky and while one of them held him up in bed the other would pour it down his throat. Then Alice and Stewart would go out, and sometimes would stay all night. Once they stayed away all night, and father was sober when they came home in the morning. I told father that things looked suspicious between Alice and Stewart. She told father that no man could ever come between them, and she also told him twice that Stewart had a loathsome disease and if they were criminally intimate he (father) would find it out."

"My father told her to suit herself about the races. She began when we lived in Crofton. She was taking boxing lessons, too. She would box with father, and her strength was considerably greater than his. She weighed 165 pounds. Alice went to Liverpool Monday morning, April 19. Father took a letter from Chuck Stewart's inside coat pocket at 6 o'clock Thursday morning. He threw it on the table, and said, 'Read that.' I told him I always knew it, because I recognized the writing. I read it, and then he showed me a copy he had made of it. On our way to work Friday morning he said he believed he would go to Liverpool for Alice. I told him she wasn't worth going after. I said that I could tell him more than that. I said that I had seen her drunk and in bed with a nigger."

"I saw my father that evening at home. He ran around, seemingly attending to things. He did not then talk to me about the letter. On the Saturday morning the foreman had a great time telling him what he wanted. He would tell him to get venetian red and he picked up a bucket of green. He could not make him understand. He was sent to work and I don't know that he got there. He started to work at 6:20 that morning. The next time I saw him was in Liverpool and dressed in different clothes."

"From your description of your home life you are a hard set," said Mr. Potts, on cross examination.

Young Robison seemed to think that applied only to the dead woman. He was about to acknowledge that he had been raised among a rough, heathenish set of people, but Mr. Potts talked in a manner calculated to annoy the witness. An objection was made to this and was sustained.

"I will tell nothing but the truth. I won't tell a lie to save my life," said Robison.

The cross examination proceeded without a hitch.

"They lived in Crofton, then moved to Mt. Washington for a year, from there they went to East End. They got along pretty well, and in addition to the housework, Alice took in washing. She was a good worker, only when she was drunk. Father never drank so much, except within the past few years. My stepmother would always get drunk when father would. He had great confidence in her, and gave all the money to her. He would occasionally take a drink with them, but always left before they got drunk. The home was not suitable to me, but I staid because my father was losing his health. Alice was boss of the house, and that's why Chuck staid there. They lived in the same house, drank together and ate together, but I don't think they were on friendly terms. I was home when father come to Liverpool.

"I read in the Sunday morning papers of the trouble in Liverpool. I went down on Monday morning. When I went home Saturday, Chuck was not there, but on Sunday I told him about it. I have not seen him since."

"I have been married about eight years. My wife lives in Pittsburgh. I don't live with her. We staid at her home for a week after we were married. She staid there, and I went down town to board. She is still my wife, but we don't live together. When we were married she was 37, and I was 17. I had to marry her."

Judge Young objected to the manner in which Potts examined the witness, and the court sustained him.

"How often have you been convicted of crime?"

"Never. I was arrested in this woman case, but that was the only time."

"My father would tell Alice to stop working," he said in response to a question from Attorney Grosshans.

Mr. Potts questioned him about the letter his father took from Stewart's pocket, but he stuck closely to his first story.

Frankie Fleming was a witness with a shirt waist and a high toned voice. She comes from Pittsburgh. "I live in Pittsburgh and know the Robisons. I saw Zach at my home April 24. I was scrubbing the floor. When he came in he did not speak, but gave me a letter to read. He ran from room to room and pressed his hands to his head. He then put the letter in his valise. A German neighbor came, and he went away, and forgot his valise. When he came back he had a pint of whisky, and said: 'Let's have a treat.' I said no, because I was not through work. I would not drink, and he put it in his valise again. I told him that Alice brought Stewart to my house, and wanted a room. They told me I might as well have the money as the hotel. My husband would not let them stay. I told Robison she was in bed with three men, and that was something I wouldn't do. He said he would bring her up in the morning when they came back from Liverpool, and they would face it."

"He came to the house with Chuck Stewart last July," said the witness in answer to Mr. Speaker. "The affair with the three men was at Manchester, N. H., where we were in a walking match. I have been in 30 walking matches. This happened after we came home at night."

I saw she and the three men in bed chatting. They were all drunk. I became angry when Zach said that she had been talking about me. He said Alice said I had been having a gay time sporting around. I said no night gown had ever been taken off my back while setting on a bed."

"No, Sir, I never lived in a sporting house. I don't think I drank more than a spoonful of whisky, and she had only visited me two times in a year. I have never been at her house but once."

John N. George testified from the chart hanging before the jury and from a tracing he had in his hand.

Before the adjournment for noon, Judge Smith instructed the jury to remember the caution he had already given them.

STEWART WILL NOT TALK.

The Big Fellow Said He Came to Attend Court.

LISBON, June 16.—[Special]—Chuck Stewart, who will give important evidence for the state in the Robison case, was brought here last evening from Allegheny, by Sheriff Gill, and was taken to county jail. Stewart will testify in rebuttal, and will deny the intimacy which the defense claims existed between him and Alice Robison, for which she paid her life.

Stewart was seen at the jail at noon today, but refused to state anything beyond that he had come to attend court, and had been a slate roofer before he went to live at Robison's. He is a great, big fellow, and, through the bars, seemed good looking.

The other Pittsburgh witnesses are enjoying the town. There are many of them and they can frequently be seen in the streets.

A STUBBORN FIGHT.

The Defense Putting In Its Best Licks Today.

LISBON, June 16.—[Special]—Robison does not manifest the slightest interest in the case, and only a few people beyond the court officials and interested parties were present this afternoon when court convened.

"I have known Robison over three years," said Daniel Bohanan, contractor for whom Robison worked, "and he has been employed by me part of this time. I thought there was a change in him during the latter part of April. He was untidy in appearance, looked wild about the eyes and did not seem to understand what you wanted him to do. On one occasion I could not make him understand where he was to go, in a portion of the city which was perfectly familiar. I recall one instance last fall when he walked out in a hard rain. I told him not to do it, as the people would think I compelled it. He replied that it would not hurt him. He told me once he had discovered a preparation to restore wood to its natural color. I don't think this is within the range of human possibilities." Court adjourned for half an hour on account of the absence of M. K. Zimmerman.

HIS FATHER HERE.

Thomas Robison Came From Beallsville This Morning.

LISBON, June 16.—[Special]—Thomas Robison, the aged father of the accused, came here from Beallsville this morning. He is a respected resident of his section, and it is believed the defense will make the most of him.

Thomas Bohanan, a contractor for whom Robison worked, reached here today and was put on the stand this afternoon. He will be an important witness.

The defense have also called a large number of other witnesses. A number of Lisbon people visited court this afternoon.

IN A BAD WAY.

Robison Did Not Sleep Any Last Night.

LISBON, June 16.—[Special]—When Deputy Bick brought Robison into the courtroom this morning it was evident that the prisoner had spent a bad night. He was nervous and excited, and for the first time since the trial began he seemed unable to set still. The strain of the last few days can be clearly seen. His two sons, while here for the express purpose of saving their father, are seldom if ever seen talking to him.

HIGH PRICED EXPERTS.

They Will Be Called by the State In Rebuttal.

LISBON, June 16.—[Special]—It is whispered around this morning that Prosecutor Speaker has made elaborate arrangements to break down any evidence the defense may have looking to the theory of insanity. A number of experts will be here tomorrow, among them being Doctor Eyeman, superintendent of the Newburg asylum. His testimony will be particularly valuable, since he has for years been known as an insanity expert.

AT NOON TODAY.

Henry Schreiber and Miss Ida Agner Were Made One.

Henry Schreiber, of Evansville, Ind., and Miss Ida Agner, eldest daughter of John Agner, were united in marriage today at the Evangelical Lutheran church by Rev. J. G. Reinartz, in the presence of a large circle of friends. The young couple leave on the 7:50 train for Evansville, their future home.

HOW THE DAUNTLESS GOT AWAY.

The Expedition Was Gone Fully Twelve Hours Before the Spanish Consul or United States Authorities Knew of It. Fooled by a False Report.

TAMPA, Fla., June 16.—A vessel supposed to be the Dauntless came into Hillsborough bay and took on a cargo of arms and ammunition from a schooner lying at anchor off the mouth of the Alafia river and then sailed away.

A report was sent out that the Dauntless had sailed from Key West with an expedition. It was circulated by those interested to throw the officers off their guard, and the Dauntless came in and got her cargo. The two boats were tied up until about 11 o'clock at night, and in the moonlight could be plainly seen from the river front.

J. E. Cartaya and Charles Silva are the only ones who are known to be aboard, and they came up from Key West.

The schooner came into the bay and anchored Saturday afternoon. Her name is not known. She was two masted and about 130 tons. Her hull was black and she was evidently well loaded. Quite a number of men went from West Tampa, striking across the country and proceeding to a point on the bay shore took to boats near the place where the Colonel Calleros expedition embarked. The expedition was well planned and was gone fully 12 hours before the authorities or Spanish consul knew that anything was going on, so completely were they thrown off their guard by the shrewd ruse. The Dauntless had an engagement to go on the ways here and had a government boat come upon her unexpectedly she would have had a good excuse for being in Hillsborough bay.

The whole affair was worked very quietly. The mysterious schooner left about daylight. No one seems to know what boat this is. Some assert that it is the Adams, which received her load from the Biscayne and then ran up in this harbor to meet a steamer which would take the munitions to Cuba or out to sea to the Dauntless.

There is also a rumor to the effect that the schooner hails from the neighborhood of Carrabelle and received her load at a point where the railroad crosses the river. The presence of Captain Parlin, a prominent citizen of Carrabelle, in this city for the past two days adds strength to the rumor. Since his arrival he has been in conference with parties formerly very active in the filibustering business.

KEY WEST, June 16.—A tug resembling the Dauntless passed through the harbor and went through the northwest channel. Her smokestack was painted red. The tug Clyde went out with a load of coal in bags.

The schooner Adams, that left with a load of arms, has not been heard from yet. No government vessels are in port.

Calhoun Back in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—W. J. Calhoun, the special commissioner who went to Cuba in connection with the Ruiz case, returned to the city last night from his home in Illinois. Mr. Calhoun will have further consultation with the president, to whom he has already made a verbal report on the conditions existing in Cuba.

BARNATO WAS A SUICIDE.

A Ship's Officer Almost Lost His Life Trying to Save Him.

FUNCHAL, June 16.—The following details have been obtained of the suicide of Barney Barnato while on the passage here from Cape Town. Barnato, who had been in ill-health for some time, seemed to improve after leaving Cape Town, but he was never left alone and someone was continually detailed to watch him.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon, he seemed to be in very good spirits and was walking up and down the deck on a passenger's arm. Suddenly Barnato asked his companion to tell him the time. But before he received a reply he wrenched his arm away and jumped overboard. The fourth officer jumped overboard after him immediately, but he failed to save the life of the South African speculator, as heavy seas were running and the vessel was steaming at the rate of 17 knots an hour.

As soon as possible the steamer was stopped, a lifeboat was lowered and pulled to the spot where the two men were last seen. The fourth officer was rescued in an exhausted condition and later the body of Barnato was recovered, floating head downward. His remains have been embalmed and will be taken to England on board the Scott.

Mrs. Barnato and her children were also on board the Scott.

Claims Barnato's Fortune.

CLEVELAND, June 16.—Mrs. Blackman of 405 Perry street, who claims to be the legitimate daughter of Barney Barnato, and her husband will at once proceed to London for the purpose of demanding her interest in the fortune. Mrs. Blackman claims to be a daughter of Barnato by his first wife.

THE JR. O. U. A. M. PARADE.

It Occurred at Pittsburgh This Afternoon—National Council Meeting.

PITTSBURGH, June 16.—The Jr. O. U. A. M. parade occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

After Rev. Mr. Lichner welcomed the delegates to the twenty-ninth annual session of the national convention of the Jr. O. U. A. M., Mayor Ford gave them greeting.

Rev. H. H. Slaughter, state councilor of Missouri, made the response.

The report of National Councilor Shanor dealt largely with decisions made during the year. He says that the work of organization was very difficult. He recommends:

That a law be provided preventing councils from loaning funds to a member of the order.

That more stringent regulations be provided for the bonding of officers of state and subordinate councils.

That all state councils be incorporated.

That laws be provided preventing any council issuing and circulating any circulars or petitions that have not received the approval and endorsement of the proper officers of the state council.

That funds be loaned the state council of Kentucky to prosecute the recovery of money and property from their former state council secretary.

That the appropriations for periodicals be continued.

The report of the national secretary shows that he received $36,870, which he turned over to the treasurer.

He says: "There can be no prosperity for our order when our mills and factories are closed, and yet, notwithstanding these conditions, we have added 106 councils to our roll, and our membership is 177,732, an increase of 10,899 since our last report. Despite the hard times, our councils have increased their receipts $284,943.51. The balance in the treasuries of subordinate councils has increased $192,210.42, the amount being $1,624,846.94.

The report of the national treasurer shows: Balance on hand, last report, $5,503; receipts, $36,870; interest, $19; total, $42,393; paid out, $36,462; balance, $5,931. The estimated receipts for the ensuing year are $25,800; expenses, $25,000.

More Airing of the Pennsylvania Legislative Insurance Scandal.

HARRISBURG, June 16.—The investigation of the legislative insurance scandal continues to be sensational.

T. J. Thomas, manager of the agencies of the Metropolitan, corroborated the testimony of John French, the agent who called on Senator Short.

Mr. Woodward, secretary of the Metropolitan, testified that Frank Leonard had called upon him in March with copies of three bills which would affect the Metropolitan. These bills, Leonard said, were strikes and they could be killed for $50,000. He told the witness that his ability to carry out his proposition could be established by a telegram. Witness stated that he had told Leonard that the Metropolitan would do nothing.

S. S. Voshell, a superintendent of the Metropolitan, testified that Leonard proposed to kill the bills by use of money; that he had been solicited to call upon the Prudential and John Hancock insurance companies. Vice President Fiske had suggested to the witness that Leonard should be kicked out of the office. At a later visit Leonard had proposed that $30,000 would kill the bill, and gave the name of a senator.

Chairman Wilson announced that Leonard, the much sought witness, would not be present. Others also testified.

MILES ADMIRALS EDM PASHA.

The Turk, He Says, Is a Great Soldier. Also Praises the Greeks.

LONDON, June 16.—General Nelson A. Miles, who will represent the United States army at the queen's jubilee, and Rear Admiral J. N. Miller, who will represent the United States navy upon the same occasion, have arrived in this city. General Miles, Admiral Miller, their staffs and Mrs. Miller were the guests at dinner last evening of White-law Reid, special envoy of the United States at the jubilee.

General Miles, in addition to visiting the Turkish and Greek armies, inspected the ordnance made at the Armstrong factory at Naples for the Italian, Spanish and Argentine governments. He also inspected the gun factories and coast defenses of Austria, Italy and France, and was courteously treated everywhere.

General Miles did not find any of the government's secretive in regard to their military equipment. He thinks Edhem Pasha is a great general, and that his troops are a fine lot of men. The Greeks, the general adds, are glad at the prospect of peace, but they are good soldiers and the junior officers and men showed a wonderful devotion to their cause.

Safety in Beauty.

A worldly father, after the style of Lord Chesterfield, was giving good advice to his son, who was about to make his entrance into society.

"And, above all, avoid flirtations; but, if you must flirt or fall in love, sir, be sure it is with a pretty woman. It is always safer."

"Why?" asked the young man.

"Because some other fellow will be sure to be attracted and cut you out before any harm has been done."—London Telegraph.

Arcturus is not less than 70 and is probably more than 100 light years distant from us. This star certainly surpasses the sun in volume many thousand times.

WORK OF THE LUTHERANS

Business Transacted by the Synod at the Meeting at Mansfield, O.

MANSFIELD, June 16.—At the session of the Lutheran synod the following deaconess board was appointed: Revs. Dr. G. V. Wenner of New York, E. P. Manhart, Baltimore; J. J. Young, New York; L. E. Albert, Philadelphia; A. H. Studebaker, W. H. Danbar and L. M. Zimmerman, Baltimore; Frank Garland, Taneytown, Md.; W. S. Frede, New York; J. S. C. Tadiken, New York; F. A. Hartranft, Philadelphia; F. T. Huber, New York; W. L. Armiger, F. P. Stiefel and George Warfield, Baltimore; Cornelius Eckhardt, Washington.

The new board of home missions were appointed as follows: Rev. Charles S. Albert, Philadelphia; M. W. Hamma, Altoona, Pa.; J. C. Koller, Hanover, Pa.; W. E. Parson, Washington; G. W. Eiders, York, Pa.; Messrs. L. Z. Dole, Baltimore; I. C. Slater and John C. Parker, Washington; W. H. Davis, Baltimore.

The report of the board of publication was submitted by Secretary S. A. Holman of Philadelphia. The present net assets are $125,071. There are now being published monthly 184,000 copies of the various Sunday school periodicals. The board decided to establish a printing house, and a committee has in charge the purchase of suitable property.

M. W. Hamma, the chairman of the committee on fraternal co-operation with other Lutheran bodies, submitted its report.

The basis of co-operation adopted at the last convention of the synod had likewise been adopted by the general council and the united synod of the south, and there were now joined in this compact the three general bodies having the largest English membership in the denomination in this country.

The greater part of the synod was taken up discussing the committee proposition to remove Dr. Eli Huber of Gettysburg, Pa., from the board of publication. A vote was taken which resulted in substituting Rev. Dr. J. C. Kellee of Hanover, Pa.

Women on the Board.

The confidence that women directors of an institute board inspire in other women, particularly in a hospital, was illustrated at the Woman's hospital in New York the other day. There was some discussion about the admission of a new patient. The question was asked, "Why was she admitted?" "Because she insisted upon it," was the answer. "She said there were women on the board here, and she was very anxious to come for that reason."

Mrs. Sage's Celebration.

Mrs. Russell Sage will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of her graduation from the Emma Willard seminary in Troy, N. Y., on June 10. Mrs. Sage will address the graduating class. At the request of the faculty and the girls she will take her diploma with her and have it read. It bears her maiden name, Olivia Slocum.

Safety in Beauty.

A worldly father, after the style of Lord Chesterfield, was giving good advice to his son, who was about to make his entrance into society.

"And, above all, avoid flirtations; but, if you must flirt or fall in love, sir, be sure it is with a pretty woman. It is always safer."

"Why?" asked the young man.

"Because some other fellow will be sure to be attracted and cut you out before any harm has been done."—London Telegraph.

WORK OF THE LUTHERANS

Business Transacted by the Synod at the Meeting at Mansfield, O.

MANSEFIELD, June 16.—At the session of the Lutheran synod the following deaconess board was appointed: Revs. Dr. G. V. Wenner of New York, F. P. Manhart, Baltimore; J. J. Young, New York; L. E. Albert, Philadelphia; A. H. Studebaker, W. H. Dunbar and L. M. Zimmerman, Baltimore; Frank Garland, Taneytown, Md.; W. S. Fries, New York; J. S. C. Tadiken, New York; F. A. Hartranft, Philadelphia; F. T. Huber, New York; W. L. Armiger, F. P. Stieff and George Warfield, Baltimore; Cornelius Eckhardt, Washington.

The new board of home missions were appointed as follows: Rev. Charles S. Albert, Philadelphia; M. W. Hamma, Altoona, Pa.; J. C. Koller, Hanover, Pa.; W. E. Parson, Washington; G. W. Eiders, York, Pa.; Messrs. L. Z. Dole, Baltimore; I. C. Slater and John C. Parker, Washington; W. H. Davis, Baltimore.

The report of the board of publication was submitted by Secretary S. A. Holman of Philadelphia. The present net assets are $125,071. There are now being published monthly 184,000 copies of the various Sunday school periodicals. The board decided to establish a printing house, and a committee has in charge the purchase of suitable property.

M. W. Hamma, the chairman of the committee on fraternal co-operation with other Lutheran bodies, submitted its report.

The basis of co-operation adopted at the last convention of the synod had likewise been adopted by the general council and the united synod of the south, and there were now joined in this compact the three general bodies having the largest English membership in the denomination in this country.

The greater part of the synod was taken up discussing the committee proposition to remove Dr. Eli Huber of Gettysburg, Pa., from the board of publication. A vote was taken which resulted in substituting Rev. Dr. J. C. Kelleer of Hanover, Pa.

Women on the Board.

The confidence that women directors of an institute board inspire in other women, particularly in a hospital, was illustrated at the Woman's hospital in New York the other day. There was some discussion about the admission of a new patient. The question was asked, "Why was she admitted?" "Because she insisted upon it," was the answer. "She said there were women on the board here, and she was very anxious to come for that reason."

Mrs. Sage's Celebration.

Mrs. Russell Sage will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of her graduation from the Emma Willard seminary in Troy, N. Y., on June 10. Mrs. Sage will address the graduating class. At the request of the faculty and the girls she will take her diploma with her and have it read. It bears her maiden name, Olivia Slocum.

No Pensions Provided For In the Hawaiian Treaty.

REPORT WAS SCHEDULED TODAY.

But the Hawaiian Officials Failed to Appear and Put Their Signatures to the Document—The President Carefully Inspecting Its Provisions Again.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Hawaiian annexation treaty is still subject to final changes, and perhaps will be reviewed at another cabinet meeting, but the chances are that the present draft will go through with little alteration. The president is going over it again very thoroughly.

It was the expectation that the treaty yesterday afternoon would receive the formal signatures of the negotiators, Secretary Sherman for the United States government, and either Minister Hatch or Mr. Lorin Thurston as a special commissioner for the Hawaiian government. The document itself had been prepared and everything was in readiness, when it was taken again to the White House for the president's final inspection and review. Secretary Sherman remained at the department later than is his custom in order to receive the Hawaiian officials, but finally at 4 o'clock the attempt to secure the signature of the treaty for the day was abandoned. This may prevent the submission of the treaty to the senate today, as was the intention of the cabinet, but the delay in any case will not be material.

At the cabinet meeting in the course of the discussion of the treaty it was decided that its pendency in the senate would not necessarily cause any considerable obstruction to the progress of the tariff bill, and while there is every disposition on the part of the president to avoid any interference with the rights of the senate in the matter, it can be stated that the treaty will not go in with any idea that it is not the wish of the executive that it shall be acted on promptly.

While the treaty is in the senate, either in the hands of the committee on foreign relations or on the calendar of executive business, it is the expectation that the people of the United States will have an opportunity, through the press and other mediums, to declare their sentiments upon the matter, and if, as is expected, there is an overwhelming declaration for annexation, it is believed that the senate will be quick to respond to the demand. In this case the treaty, it is believed, can be taken up and ratified in the course of one or two executive sessions, while the regular tariff debates are in progress daily.

The manner in which the Hawaiian treaty will come before the house is in the paragraph which provides that the United States shall assume the present debt of Hawaii. This will not in any way effect the treaty or interfere in its adoption. Irrespective and before any action will be submitted to the house will come the ratification of the treaty by the senate.

If the treaty is ratified no action by the house can change the condition. The failure of the house to appropriate to pay the debt or the interest on it may become a future complication, but the ratification of the treaty by the senate will annex the islands.

The treaty which made Alaska a part of this country carried with it an appropriation of several million dollars. There was a most bitter contention in the house about making the appropriation, but the senate had by treaty ratified the agreement. Of course if congress by action of the house had refused to make the appropriation, then Russia would have held possession of Alaska. The case of the refusal of the house to refuse to appropriate for the interest of or the debt of Hawaii will not, it is said, prevent annexation, but the payment of the debt or the interest would be a subject for future consideration and a question between the province, colony or territory of Hawaii and the holders of the debt, if congress should not pay it.

The one point of importance in which the treaty differs from the convention negotiated by Secretary Foster in President Harrison's administration is the omission of any provision for ex-Queen Liliuokalani and the Princess Kaiulani. In the original treaty it was provided that the government of the United States should pay the ex-queen the sum of $20,000 cash and the same amount of money as a pension each year during the remainder of her natural life, provided she, in good faith, submitted to the government of the United States and the local government of the island. The Princess Kaiulani, being the next in line of royal blood, was to receive a cash payment of $150,000 but no pension, under a similar proviso as in the case of the ex-queen.

It is understood that any objection that might have been expected to the annexation of the islands based on the large proportion of coolies in the population has been forestalled by an article not only prohibiting the further immigration of such laborers to the Hawaiian Islands, but also prohibiting the coming of any of the Chinese from the islands to other parts of the United States.

UNTIL FREE SILVER COMES.

Senator Tillman, Until Then, Wants a Head Tax on Immigrants.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Senator Tillman has given notice of an amendment to the tariff bill providing for a head tax of $100 on all immigrants to the United States. The amendment also makes it a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment for any person to enter the United States for the purpose of engaging in trade or manual labor without intending to become a citizen.

These provisions are modified by a provision to the effect that they "shall only remain in effect until silver shall be admitted to our mints for coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1, on the same conditions with gold.

A Pretty Resort.

A sojourn at, Winona Assembly Grounds at Eagle Lake, Ind., near Warsaw, on the Fort Wayne route, will prove a pleasant summer outing. This delightful resort is the site of the youngest of the Chautauque assemblies, and its attractions combine facilities for recreation, entertainment, instruction and devotion.

Eagle Lake is a beautiful sheet of water, surrounded by several hundred acres of romantic woodland which covers one stretch of nearly two miles. The lake affords opportunity for aquatic pastimes, the boating, bathing and fishing being excellent. In addition to numerous rowboats there are several pleasure steamers on the lake.

The shady grounds are occupied by many pretty cottages and summer homes of persons who annually enjoy the beauties of the place, strengthening body in the invigorating atmosphere and enriching the mind by the special advantages the summer school offers.

A fine park has been laid out on the shore of the lake. A large auditorium, amphitheatre, college halls, hotels and restaurant have also been constructed on the grounds for the accommodation of visitors. There is also a race track and space set aside for out-door athletic sports.

In addition to the Presbyterian General Assembly which will be in session on the Assembly Grounds from May 20 to June 2, a number of other large meetings will be held on the grounds during the summer of 1897, including the Indiana State Sunday School Convention, Western Association of Writers, Indiana State W. C. T. U., Indiana Y. M. C. A., Encampment, National Medical Society, Boys' Brigade, and Indiana State Christian Endeavor Convention.

Excursion tickets to Eagle Lake will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines during the summer season. Details regarding rates, time of trains, etc., may be ascertained by addressing the nearest passenger or ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines, or by applying to F. Van Dusen, chief assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburgh, Pa. Full information concerning the Assembly and Summer School, cost of entertainment, etc., may be secured upon application to Secretary Sol. C. Dickey, Eagle Lake, Ind.

A Lake of Ink.

In the midst of the 3,500 Cocopah volcanoes of Arizona stands the lake of ink, into which run scores of streams of clear, hot, mineral charged water. It is only a quarter of a mile long by half as much wide, but no bottom has ever yet been found to its gloomy depths. The black water rises to within three or four inches of its level shores, and the temperature at the edge is 110 degrees F., rising at a depth of 250 feet to 216 degrees—4 degrees above boiling point. To the touch the water feels smooth and oily, and when it is in repose ashes and oily matter cover the surface half an inch thick. Although the water is jet black, it does not discolor the skin of a bather. The coloring matter seems to be held in suspension and will adhere to a white cloth dipped in the lake. To the taste the water is warm, salt and bitter.

To the bather the sensation is most delightful, exhilarating to such a degree that a bath of 15 minutes makes one feel as if under the influence of the very best brandy.

Millions of bubbles, formed by escaping gases, keep the surface at all times agitated, till it rolls, boils and foams as if ready to roll over its banks and escape. Whenever the neighboring volcanoes rage with anger, the lake follows suit, and the sight of its maddened waters will not soon be forgotten.

The cures wrought on the Indians who bathe there and on the few white men who have so far visited the spot are almost incredible.—London Answers.

Market Rate.

Some of these big magazine editors are humorous at times. In response to this inquiry from an amateur, "What does poetry bring in New York?" one of them replied:

"We have no regular prices, but if you ship it in crates or carloads we believe that you can realize 1 1/4 cents a pound for it."—Atlanta Constitution.

Dubious.

"I dropped around to see how our safe stood the fire," said an agent to the proprietor of an establishment which had been destroyed, as the two surveyed the ruins.

"Well," replied the owner, "I think your safe is a first class article to keep unpaid bills in."—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

His Conversational Effort.

He did not know much about pictures, and when she spoke of a girl friend's achievements with a brush he was a little at sea. He said "Yes" and "No" with reasonable accuracy until she happened to say:

"What I am especially disposed to praise is her coloring."

"Her coloring!" he echoed with alacrity. "It's superb! You know I always did admire blonds."—Washington Star.

Low Rates.

Special reductions in fare over the Pennsylvania lines will be granted for numerous events to take place this summer in various parts of the United States, in addition to local excursions. Some of the points to which tickets will be sold and dates of sale are as follows:

To Cincinnati, July 21 and 22, for German Epworth League meeting.

To Indianapolis, August 17 and 18, for Young People's Christian union annual convention.

To Indianapolis, September 8 and 9, for National Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The reduced rates over the Pennsylvania lines will not be restricted to members of the organizations mentioned, but may be taken advantage of by the public generally. Excursion tickets may be obtained at ticket offices on the Pennsylvania system and will also be sold over this route by connecting railroads. Any Pennsylvania line ticket or passenger agent will furnish desired information concerning rates, time of trains, return limit, and other details, to all applicants, or the same may be obtained by addressing Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburgh, Pa.

New Entrance to New York.

All are convenient locations; Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, in the downtown district, and Twenty-third street in the uptown district. The latter entrance will be formally opened May 16, when two new, commodious ferryboats, double-deckers, constructed especially for the Pennsylvania lines and furnished and fitted in up-to-date style, will be placed in service between the Jersey City station and Twenty-third street, connecting with all inbound and outbound trains over the Pennsylvania system, the same as the boats running between that station and Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, which will also continue in the service.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York. The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in this respect.

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Petoskey, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Perhaps no country in the world is better suited for the cyclist than Holland, where you may run for miles without meeting with an incline that even suggests a hill. In The Hague cycling is a universal amusement, horse exercise for ladies being the occasional exception.

BARS DUSKY ROYALTY.

No Pensions Provided For In the Hawaiian Treaty.

REPORT WAS SCHEDULED TODAY,

But the Hawaiian Officials Failed to Appear and Put Their Signatures to the Document—The President Carefully Inspecting Its Provisions Again.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Hawaiian annexation treaty is still subject to final changes, and perhaps will be reviewed at another cabinet meeting, but the chances are that the present draft will go through with little alteration. The president is going over it again very thoroughly.

It was the expectation that the treaty yesterday afternoon would receive the formal signatures of the negotiators, Secretary Sherman for the United States government, and either Minister Hatch or Mr. Lorin Thurston as a special commissioner for the Hawaiian government. The document itself had been prepared and everything was in readiness, when it was taken again to the White House for the president's final inspection and review. Secretary Sherman remained at the department later than his custom in order to receive the Hawaiian, but finally at 4 o'clock the attempt to secure the signature of the treaty for the day was abandoned. This may prevent the submission of the treaty to the senate today, as was the intention of the cabinet, but the delay in any case will not be material.

At the cabinet meeting in the course of the discussion of the treaty it was decided that its pendency in the senate would not necessarily cause any considerable obstruction to the progress of the tariff bill, and while there is every disposition on the part of the president to avoid any interference with the rights of the senate in the matter, it can be stated that the treaty will not go in with any idea that it is not the wish of the executive that it shall be acted on promptly.

While the treaty is in the senate, either in the hands of the committee on foreign relations or on the calendar of executive business, it is the expectation that the people of the United States will have an opportunity, through the press and other mediums, to declare their sentiments upon the matter, and if, as is expected, there is an overwhelming declaration for annexation, it is believed that the senate will be quick to respond to the demand. In this case the treaty, it is believed, can be taken up and ratified in the course of one or two executive sessions, while the regular tariff debates are in progress daily.

The manner in which the Hawaiian treaty will come before the house is in the paragraph which provides that the United States shall assume the present debt of Hawaii. This will not in any way affect the treaty or interfere in its adoption. Irrespective and before any action will be submitted to the house will come the ratification of the treaty by the senate.

If the treaty is ratified no action by the house can change the condition. The failure of the house to appropriate to pay the debt or the interest on it may become a future complication, but the ratification of the treaty by the senate will annex the islands.

The treaty which made Alaska a part of this country carried with it an appropriation of several million dollars. There was a most bitter contention in the house about making the appropriation, but the senate had by treaty ratified the agreement. Of course if congress by action of the house had refused to make the appropriation, then Russia would have held possession of Alaska. The case of the refusal of the house to refuse to appropriate for the interest of or the debt of Hawaii will not, it is said, prevent annexation, but the payment of the debt or the interest would be a subject for future consideration and a question between the province, colony or territory of Hawaii and the holders of the debt, if congress should not pay it.

The one point of importance in which the treaty differs from the convention negotiated by Secretary Foster in President Harrison's administration is the omission of any provision for ex-Queen Liliuokalani and the Princess Kaiulani. In the original treaty it was provided that the government of the United States should pay the ex-queen the sum of $20,000 cash and the same amount of money as a pension each year during the remainder of her natural life, provided she, in good faith, submitted to the government of the United States and the local government of the island. The Princess Kaiulani, being the next in line of royal blood, was to receive a cash payment of $150,000 but no pension, under a similar provision as in the case of the ex-queen.

It is understood that any objection that might have been expected to the annexation of the islands based on the large proportion of coolies in the population has been forestalled by an article not only prohibiting the further immigration of such laborers to the Hawaiian Islands, but also prohibiting the coming of any of the Chinese from the islands to other parts of the United States.

UNTIL FREE SILVER COMES.

Senator Tillman, Until Then, Wants a Head Tax on Immigrants.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Senator Tillman has given notice of an amendment to the tariff bill providing for a head tax of $100 on all immigrants to the United States. The amendment also makes it a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment for any person to enter the United States for the purpose of engaging in trade or manual labor without intending to become a citizen.

These provisions are modified by a provision to the effect that they shall only remain in effect until silver shall be admitted to our mints for coinage at the rate of 16 to 1, on the same conditions with gold.

Correspondent Shriver on Trial.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The trial of John S. Shriver, correspondent of the New York Mail and Express, the fourth of the recalcitrant witnesses before the senate sugar investigating committee of 1894, is on before Judge Bradley.

Verdict in Urbana Killings.

URBANA, O., June 16.—Coroner Hewitt has rendered a verdict clearing the members of the national guard, Captain Leonard, the sheriff and the mayor of responsibility for the killing of the two citizens, Bell and Baker, by the militia in the first attempt to lynch the negro rapist, Mitchell. Governor Bushnell is also absolved from blame for not sending more troops.

Will Ship Gold to Europe.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Lazard Freres have announced that they will ship $600,000 in gold to Europe by tomorrow's steamer. The gold was obtained from private sources.

Sharkey Challenges Maher.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Tom Sharkey of San Francisco has challenged Peter Maher to a boxing match of $5,000 or $10,000 a side, as Maher may prefer. Sharkey's manager has put up $3,500 with Al Smith as a forfeit.

Tarred and Feathered by a Mob.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., June 16.—A mob has tarred and feathered an itinerant photographer named Anderson, alias "Kinky" Miller, for alleged alienation of the affections of the wife of Henry Michaels.

A. O. U. W. Supreme Lodge.

MILWAUKEE, June 16.—The supreme lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen has reached final adjournment. After a lively fight Asbury Park, N. J., was selected as the next meeting place.

A Brassworkers' Convention.

ERIE, Pa., June 16.—The international convention of brassworkers and metal polishers are in annual convention here, with 78 cities represented.

Hoyt's Nomination Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The senate has confirmed the nomination of Henry M. Hoyt of Pennsylvania as assistant attorney general.

The Weather.

A Pretty Resort.

A sojourn at Winona Assembly Grounds at Eagle Lake, Ind., near Warsaw, on the Fort Wayne route, will prove a pleasant summer outing. This delightful resort is the site of the youngest of the Chautauqua assemblies, and its attractions combine facilities for recreation, entertainment, instruction and devotion.

Eagle Lake is a beautiful sheet of water, surrounded by several hundred acres of romantic woodland which covers one stretch of nearly two miles. The lake affords opportunity for aquatic pastimes, the boating, bathing and fishing being excellent. In addition to numerous row-boats there are several pleasure steamers on the lake.

The shady grounds are occupied by many pretty cottages and summer homes of persons who annually enjoy the beauties of the place, strengthening body in the invigorating atmosphere and enriching the mind by the special advantages the summer school offers.

A fine park has been laid out on the shore of the lake. A large auditorium, amphitheatre, college halls, hotels and restaurant have also been constructed on the grounds for the accommodation of visitors. There is also a race track and space set aside for out-door athletic sports.

In addition to the Presbyterian General Assembly which will be in session on the Assembly Grounds from May 20 to June 2, a number of other large meetings will be held on the grounds during the summer of 1897, including the Indiana State Sunday School Convention, Western Association of Writers, Indiana State W. C. T. U., Indiana Y. M. C. A. Encampment, National Medical Society, Boys' Brigade, and Indiana State Christian Endeavor Convention.

Excursion tickets to Eagle Lake will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines during the summer season. Details regarding rates, time of trains, etc., may be ascertained by addressing the nearest passenger or ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines, or by applying to F. Van Dusen, his assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa. Full information concerning the Assembly and Summer School, cost of entertainment, etc., may be secured upon application to Secretary Sol. C. Dickey, Eagle Lake, Ind.

A Lake of Ink.

In the midst of the 3,500 Cocopah volcanoes of Arizona stands the lake of ink, into which run scores of streams of clear, hot, mineral charged water. It is only a quarter of a mile long by half yet much wider, but no bottom has ever been found to its gloomy depths. The black water rises to within three or four inches of its level shores, and the temperature at the edge is 110 degrees F., rising at a depth of 250 feet to 216 degrees—4 degrees above boiling point. To the touch the water feels smooth and oily, and when it is in response ashes and oily matter cover the surface half an inch thick. Although the water is jet black, it does not discolor the skin of a bather. The coloring matter seems to be held in suspension and will adhere to a white cloth dipped in the lake. To the taste the water is warm, salt and bitter.

To the bather the sensation is most delightful, exhilarating to such a degree that a bath of 15 minutes makes one feel as if under the influence of the very best brandy.

Millions of bubbles, formed by escaping gases, keep the surface at all times agitated, till it rolls, boils and foams as if ready to roll over its banks and escape. Whenever the neighboring volcanoes rage with anger, the lake follows suit, and the sight of its maddened waters will not soon be forgotten.

The cures wrought on the Indians who bathe there and on the few white men who have so far visited the spot are almost incredible.—London Answers.

Market Rate.

Some of these big magazine editors are humorous at times. In response to this inquiry from an amateur, "What does poetry bring in New York?" one of them replied:

"We have no regular prices, but if you ship it in crates or carloads we believe that you can realize 1 1/4 cents a pound for it."—Atlanta Constitution.

Dubious.

"I dropped around to see how our safe stood the fire," said an agent to the proprietor of an establishment which had been destroyed, as the two surveyed the ruins.

"Well," replied the owner, "I think your safe is a first-class article to keep unpaid bills in."—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

His Conversational Effort.

He did not know much about pictures, and when she spoke of a girl friend's achievements with a brush he was a little at sea. He said "Yes" and "No" with reasonable accuracy until she happened to say:

"What I am especially disposed to praise is her coloring."

"Her coloring!" he echoed with alacrity. "It's superb! You know I always did admire blonds."—Washington Star.

Low Rates.

Special reductions in fare over the Pennsylvania lines will be granted for numerous events to take place this summer in various parts of the United States, in addition to local excursions. Some of the points to which tickets will be sold and dates of sale are as follows:

To Nashville, Tenn., daily to October 15, for Tennessee Centennial and International exposition.

To Winona assembly grounds, Eagle Lake, (near Warsaw, Ind.) May 15 to August 31, for annual assembly and summer school.

To Celeron (Chautauqua Lake,) July 11 and 12, account Photographers Association of America.

To Toronto, Canada, July 15 and 16, for Epworth League National convention.

To Minneapolis, July 3 and 4, for national meeting, B. P. O. Elks.

To Chattanooga, July 13, 14 and 15, account Baptist Young Peoples' union, of America.

To Detroit, July 12 and 13, for National Republican League meeting.

To Cincinnati, July 21 and 22, for German Epworth League meeting.

To Indianapolis, August 17 and 18, for Young People's Christian union annual convention.

To Indianapolis, September 8 and 9, for National Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The reduced rates over the Pennsylvania lines will not be restricted to members of the organizations mentioned, but may be taken advantage of by the public generally. Excursion tickets may be obtained at ticket offices on the Pennsylvania system and will also be sold over this route by connecting railroads. Any Pennsylvania line ticket or passenger agent will furnish desired information concerning rates, time of trains, return limit, and other details, to all applicants, or the same may be obtained by addressing Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Entrance to New York.

All are convenient locations; Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, in the downtown district, and Twenty-third street in the uptown district. The latter entrance will be formally opened June 16, when two new, commodious ferryboats, double-deckers, constructed especially for the Pennsylvania lines and furnished and fitted in up-to-date style, will be placed in service between the Jersey City station and Twenty-third street, connecting with all inbound and outbound trains over the Pennsylvania system, the same as the boats running between that station and Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, which will also continue in the service.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York. The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in this respect.

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and Potomac mountain retreats, and of Potomac, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Perhaps no country in the world is better suited for the cyclist than Holland, where you may run for miles without meeting with an incline that even suggests a hill. In The Hague cycling is a universal amusement, horse exercise for ladies being the occasional exception.

IN THE EVENT OF WAR

HOW THE NATIONAL GUARD COULD BE MOBILIZED.

The Military Defense Act That Is Most Needed at the Present Time—Organization of the Force For Foreign War Only.

The military defense act which the United States doubtless stands most in need of at the present moment is one whereby the militia bodies of the whole country will become a compact and comprehensively organized national force, with their position, discipline and movement accurately determined for readiness in time of foreign war.

If the United States should be involved now with Spain or any other power of consequence, the first move would be to place the regular army in the field, and immediately afterward the national guard would be mobilized for active service.

We have a national guard composed of enthusiastic volunteers, maintained in many states more by their sacrifices than by the just treatment of their state governments. The efficiency of the guard varies from high in several states to below zero in others. The regimental and company strength widely differ, the equipment and clothing are extremely variant, the arms likewise differ, and some have magnificent armories, while others drill in sheds. To bring order out of 100,000 such soldiers, irregularly comprised in detail, will take enormous labor and time, as well as a waste of money which would have been obviated by previous organization into a modern national military machine.

Nearly every high army officer and many national guard officers have at one time or another pointed out these dangers and urged some scheme for congressional action. Several of these plans have received careful attention, while others have been dismissed as impractical because of their too European heaviness or expense. The majority of them, however, have failed to win approval because they did not properly recognize the civilian side of the service or the sensibilities of the states and difference in state laws.

Some have not remembered that the amount of training a militiaman can possibly receive is limited; that he is a working citizen first and a soldier afterward, and the amount of time sacrificed cannot be much larger. If a powerful national force is to be organized out of the militia, it must be carefully adapted to meet the variety of state conditions, and if effected quickly must disturb as little as possible the existing military laws of different commonwealths.

The proper plan to follow in the case is to perfect an organization of the forces for the purpose of foreign war only, leaving for every other duty the military under the same authority as if no national reserve existed. Belonging to the larger body would affect each command only in the matter of its improved efficiency and equipment, as well as uniformity in size of regiments.

Whatever service the troops perform as members of the national force must be considered as additional to all state duty, and complete regiments only, which under their own state laws are required to do a certain amount of drill and field duty every year for the state, must be eligible to the reserve.

Upon enrollment in the reserve the United States should provide each regiment with complete equipment and with arms. They ought to have two uniforms, one for field service and one for parade, for the facts must not be lost sight of that militia troops must always be given the opportunity to show themselves upon occasions in dress uniform and that, however unmilitary it may seem to some professional soldiers, this endowment of a handsome uniform does too much for the enthusiasm and esprit de corps to well be ignored.

The performance of weekly drill (but with regular inspections by regular army officers) may be taken as sufficient, but in addition to the six days' field duty for the state the reserve should go into camp of instruction by brigade annually for a period of either 10 or 12 days (exclusive of time occupied in transportation if 10 days) and every three years the encampment should be by division, the alternating of the three divisions of the corps upon different years permitting field officers of the other divisions to attend for training as they should be required to do.

The pay given to regiments for their duty as members of the reserve should be so much per annum for the annual work laid down, including attendance at, say, 45 weekly drills, and all absences from drill should be deducted pro rata from the pay, while penalties should be ordered for dereliction of duty and failure to join promptly for camp of instruction.—Army and Navy Journal.

Upon enrollment in the reserve the United States should provide each regiment with complete equipment and with arms. They ought to have two uniforms, one for field service and one for parade, for the facts must not be lost sight of that militia troops must always be given the opportunity to show themselves upon occasions in dress uniform and that, however unmilitary it may seem to some professional soldiers, this endowment of a handsome uniform does too much for the enthusiasm and esprit de corps to well be ignored.

The performance of weekly drill (but with regular inspections by regular army officers) may be taken as sufficient, but in addition to the six days' field duty for the state the reserve should go into camp of instruction by brigade annually for a period of either 10 or 12 days (exclusive of time occupied in transportation if 10 days) and every three years the encampment should be by division, the alternating of the three divisions of the corps upon different years permitting field officers of the other divisions to attend for training as they should be required to do.

The pay given to regiments for their duty as members of the reserve should be so much per annum for the annual work laid down, including attendance at, say, 45 weekly drills, and all absences from drill should be deducted pro rata from the pay, while penalties should be ordered for dereliction of duty and failure to join promptly for camp of instruction.—Army and Navy Journal.

An Envious Observer.

He is a real estate man, and his mind is always on his business. He happened to be passing the White House and stopped to gaze at it.

"I wish," he said pensively, "that I could handle a piece of property like that. Every time a tenant leaves there is somebody ready and waiting to move in."—Washington Star.
